

Luther College, University of Regina, in Regina, Saskatchewan Canada is seeking an Interim Chaplain/Campus Pastor, duties ideally commencing July 2014.

Luther College at the University of Regina is a federated college of the University. As a small, liberal arts and sciences college, informed by a progressive understanding of Christianity, Luther seeks to provide a stimulating, supportive environment in which people can develop their potential, deepen their understanding of the world, and engage with the wider community to realize God's justice and peace for all. Our teaching, research, and community life are informed by five key principles: commitment to global citizenship, engagement in social justice, pursuit of a sustainable environment, demonstration of high ethical standards, and reflection on values.

Candidates for this interim position will be able to demonstrate: a) theological orientation that is open, inclusive, progressive, and rooted in the Gospel; b) ability as a worship leader in both small and large groups ; c) ability to work with students and staff with diverse backgrounds; d) ability to work collaboratively in a multifaith educational environment; e) ability to counsel students and their families especially during times of pastoral need; f) ability to work collaboratively with the senior leadership of the College; g) ability to lead and organize special events as needed by the College; h) ability to conduct a needs assessment for the College's future goals and programming.

Candidates must have a Master of Divinity degree and be eligible to serve under a call from the Saskatchewan Synod of the ELCIC (includes Anglican clergy). Experience in a parish and/or educational institution would be an asset, along with skills and/or experience in interim ministry.

Benefits and salary are commensurate with experience and expertise.
